To mark Chinese New Year today, Dezeen selects the 12 most anticipated architecture projects set to complete in China this year by studios including Snøhetta, Neri&Hu and Zaha Hadid Architects.

Among the projects to look out for are towering headquarters for two leading Chinese firms in Shenzhen, hotels on the site of a former porcelain factory and a linear museum.

Hotel Indigo and EVEN Hotels, Jingdezhen, by Neri&Hu

Chinese architecture studio Neri&Hu was commissioned to design two new hotels on the site of a former porcelain factory in Jingdezhen.

Both of the eight-storey hotels will be positioned atop a raised piazza, where a series of public functions will be located.

Tiled roof responds to the old factory's silhouette, while a combined material palette of red concrete, red terrazzo, red ceramics, and red brick will be used throughout the complex.
